

ABSTRACT

A unified messaging system enables access to a variety of messaging devices and storage of messages in a single uniform e-mail attachment format. Furthermore, the system also provides e-mail messages to users without requiring said users to locally store said messages on a storage volume.